THOUGHT BABY'S EAR

My infant was one mass of bleeding sores which extended to his head, and we thought one of his ears would drop off. His sufferings were beyond description, and he had to be kept under opiates. Our physician did everything for his relief; I beutterly discouraged. My attention was called to a Curreuna testimonial. I bought the CUTICURA, CUTICURA SOAP, and CUTICURA RE-SOLVENT. The result was simply marvelleus.
After the third day the opiates were discontinued, he was free from pain and terrible itching, and in seven weeks was cured, with a clean, smooth, J. C. HARDWICK, Clara, Ga. Ore training and inflammation, and thus cotte and heal.

It was decided to mobilize the pupils of the public schools Wednesday afternoon in front of the Central school building at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon to rehearse the two songs to be sung by them in chorus at the cornerstone exercises. Copies of the songs have been furnished all of the school children, and they have been rehearsing for some time. However, Superintendent Wolfe thinks it advisable to assemble all of the pupils together and hold one general rehearsal before participating in the high school exercises. of brown wrapping paper. Kersting was walking along the railroad tracks in the direction of Second and Walnut streets when the accident happened. A St. Louis & San Francisco passenger train was pulling up the heavy grade to the Grand Central passenger station at Second and Wyandotte streets. The en-gineer sounded the whistle on the locomotive as a warning and Kersting glanced back over his shoulder and started to walk off the tracks. One of his feet was caught in a guard rail and before he could extricate it the train struck him. The engine and four passenger coaches passed over his body and he was literally ground to

He was dragged for a distance of fifty feet and nearly every bone in his body was cut or bruised by the wheels of the cars and the locomotive. The face of the dead man alone was not disfigured beyond recognition. A number of persons witnessed the accident and all of them say that Kersting did not appear to act like a man who had been drinking, but that he was run down after his foot was caught in the guard rail.

Kersting was 25 years old and was formerly employed by Fitzgerald Bros. grading contractors. During the winter he was employed by the late M. M. Deming in putting up ice on the Blue river. He was unmarried and had no relatives in this city. He has a brother living in Kingiisher, O. T. The coroner will hold an inquest.

HER PRAYER ANSWERED.

Transportation Home to Her Parents at Lincoln.

Mrs. Emma Lyons appealed to the police authorities in Kansas City, Kas., yesterday for aid. To Chief of Police McFarland she related a sad story of a husband's brutality. Mrs. Lyons stated that her husband has been dragging her and their children about the country in a covered wagon. Thursday night they arrived in Kansas City. Kas., and stopped near Kerr's park, on Eighteenth street. Lyons, so his wife claims, came into the city to purchase some supplies and did not return until late at night, and when he did reach camp he was intoxicated. Because she criticised him for getting drunk, Mrs. Lyons says her husband brutally, assaulted her.

The unfortunate woman wanted to get home to her parents, at Lincoln, Neb., and the authorities, after investigating her story and linding it to be true, furnished her with the desired transportation. for aid. To Chief of Police McFarland she William Thompson's Home Burned. The home of William Thompson, a contractor, in Boston place, was burned to the ground last night. The building was a two-story brick owned by the New England Trust Company. The loss to the building is estimated at $3,000, and on the contents $1,000. The family was away from home and the origin of the fire is unknown.

Aren't you glad that you didn't change to summer underwear after Monday's blast of midsummer? Or, did you?

It Belonged to the Late Miss Jane Morgan and Is Elaborately Decorated.

The unique interior decorations in the Staten Island home of the late Miss Jane Morgan, who died on April 6, were all her own handiwork. She had studied art with best masters in Dusseldorf, Munich and Copenhagen, and was equally skillful with the pencil, brush and chisel. It is said that nowhere in New York are there finer specimens of paneling in oils and woods than in the salon of this house. It took Miss Morgan more than twelve months to complete it. The entire decorations are of rosewood and ash, inlaid in the most intricate devices, each design being suggested by some passage in the Bible.

Bible.

On the shelf which was about the room, and above the dado, are quaint legends. On the north wall are the words, "The Spirit and the Bride say come to the spirit of the righteousness and peace which shall pervade the earth." On the opposite side are Greek words indicative of the hope of humanity. To the right of the window is the assurance that "The great and only God is with us." the assurance that "The great and only God is with us."

The chair drawn up before the curious
The chair drawn up before the curious cupboard is an exact copy of the corona-tion chair at Westminster. The long chest between the windows is an odd carved af-fair in dark and light wood, copied by Miss Morgan from an old German chest of the sort in which the bride of yore brought her stock of linen home to the house of her lord lord.

A quaint box of iron on the floor was once the property of a fellow student, who, deserted by friends, died of a broken heart. The pictures in this room are specimens from Austrian models, done in the early years of Miss Morgan's career.

Next to the Pompelian bath in this home there is nothing more unlarge than its die. here is nothing more unique than its din-ng room. Ceiling and walls are of cerulean ing room, Celling and walls are of cerulean blue tinted stucco, incrusted with shells in an artistic design. The frieze and window casements are delicately traced in a series of rose-colored conch shells. The brick fire-place holds space for the household goods. The dado is of exquisitely grained oak, and the floor is of porphyry-tinted marble. The house was designed by Miss Morgan and her famous sister, Midy Morgan.

English Disgust of Our Barber Shops.

William Archer's Correspondence.

One of the many reasons which lead me to regard the Americans as a leisurely people, rather than a nation of "hustlers, is the patience with which they submit to the long drawn tyranny of the barber. In England one grudges five minutes for a shave, and one pays from 4d to 5d; in America one can hardly escape in twenty-five minutes, and one pays (with the executioner's tip) from a shilling to L5d. The charge would be by no means excessive if one wanted or enjoyed all the endless processes to which one is subjected; but for my part I would willingly pay double to escape them. The essential portion of the business, the actual shaving, is, as a rule, badly performed, with a heavy hand, and with a good deal of needless pawing about of the patient's head. But when the shave is over the horrors are only beginnig. First your face is cooked for several minutes in relays of towels steeped in boiling water. Then a whole series of essences is rubbed into it, generally with the torturer's naked hand. The sequence of these essences varles in different "pariors," but one especially loathsome "hell-brew," known as "witch hazel," is everywhere inevitable. Then your wounds have to be elaborately doctored with stinging chemicals; your hair, which has been hopelessify tousied in the pawing process, has to be drenched in some sickly smelling oil and brushed; your mustache has to be lubricated and combed; and at last you escape from the tormentor's clutches, irritated, enervated, hopelessly late for an important appointment, and so recking with unholy odors that you feel as though all great Neptune's ocean would scarcely wash you clean again. William Archer's Correspondence.

The Wife of Sousa.

From the Criterion.

Mrs. John Philip Sousa, wife of the composer, is a remarkably pretty woman, who looks like a girl of 17, although she is the mother of several sturdy, grown-up children. The reason for her wonderfully youthful appearance is due largely to her siender, petife form and also to the fact that her luxuriant hair is prematurely gray. It is usually worn in artistic curls above her forehead and tied at the back of the neck with a black velvet ribbon. With her fresh complexion and bright eyes, accentuated by this oddly beautiful hair, Mrs. Sousa looks like a beauty of the pompadour era. From the Criterion

ZIMMERSCHIED CONCERTS UNDER A NEW SOUNDING BOARD.

Visitors to Troost Will Find Several Improvements-Cottagers in Their Summer Homes at Fair-indulged in by many as it has been heretofore, and to accommodate the increasing crowds another thirty foot coach will be brought into use. A train of two coache will be run every hour.

Improvements at Troost.

Those who go out to Troost park to-day will find that many changes have been made since the closing of the last season. The most notable improvement, probably, is the erection of a sounding board, which will make the concerts more enjoyable than they have ever been. The difference between music played in the open air beneath a sounding board and in an ordinary bandstand is so great that it is safe to say that the pleasure of listening to the band will be almost doubled.

The sounding board occupies the same osition as the old bandstand, and it faces position as the old bandstand, and it laces the entrance to the park, thus affording room for seating a large number of people directly in front of it. The seats near the stand are all new, and from the number of them it is evident the management of the is preparing to entertain unusual park is preparing to entertain unusual crowds.

Many new electric lights have been added. Superintendent Waddell estimates that the light which will be furnished at the park this season will be fully five times as much as that in the past.

A change will be found in the south end of the park, where a fence has been built to cut off the picnic grounds from the remainder of the park. There are various gates in this fence, and they will be open in the day, thus allowing free access to all who wish to ramble through that end of the grounds. At night, however, all these gates will be closed, and no one will be admitted to that section.

This improvement is one which is made in accordance with the policy of Superintendent Waddell, which is to preserve Troost park as an attractive resort for the sead children. Put becomes the scient.

crowds within a comparatively limited and a brilliantly lighted space the chances of disturbances or unpleasant occurrences are almost entirely removed.

There will be no other concerts this week, but beginning with next Sunday the band will give two concerts every Sunday and week day. The park, however, will be open every day. Professor Zimmerschied has endeavored to make the programmes for to-day such as will please all lovers of music. The numbers which will be played this afternoon are:

Concert Overture (Surpo).

"Idyll," characteristic (Ellenberg).

Waltz. "The Fortune Teller" (Herbert).

"Under Remus" (arranged by George Wiegand),

"Under the Double Eagle" (Wagner).

Overture, "Nabuca" (Verdi).

Medley of Songs Up to Date (Beyer).

Waltz Medley (Bendix).

Seventh Regiment, March (Howard).

Seventh Regiment March (Howard).

Many of the cottagers have already taken up their abode in their summer homes at Fairmount and there were busy scenes at the park yesterday. The hotel will be under the direction of Mrs. E. C. Loomis this season. Behind the desk will be found W. N. Wharton, who made so many friends while he was in that position iast season. There will not be any music at Fairmount to-day, but there will be many other attractions, including boating and good fishing.

shaven both afternoon and evening a military band, under the leadership of J. F. Zimmerschied, will furnish music for the pleasure seekers.

Then there followed the liveliest scene ever witnessed in the place. The man from the country worked as though he was getting in hay with a thunder shower in sight. He gave the boy a nickel to chalk cues for him. He ran around the table, made shap shots and growled during the brief interval in which the balls were being placed. Before his hour was up he was opened yesterday, and put in readiness for the Sunday guests. Troost park will have the only concert programme to be given. Both afternoon and evening a military band, under the leadership of J. F. Zimmerschied, will furnish music for the pleasure seekers.

The popular excursion to Dodson and back on the Kansas City Interurban will be indulged in by many as it has been hereto-

INSURRECTION AMONG MEMBERS OF NO. 5 HOSE COMPANY.

Both Are Temporarily Suspended.

An insurrection was reported last night from No. 5 hose company, in Kansas City, Kas. This is the colored company recently established. Assistant Fire Chief McCon nell went to the scene for the purpose of straightening out the difficulties and his arrival he found Captain Robinson and encounter. Captain Robinson has a local encounter. Captain Robinson has a local reputation of being very handy with his lists, and only for the interference of Assistant Chief McConnell, Harris would have probably suffered a severe drubbing.

The matter was reperted to the board of fire and police commissioners, which was in session at the city hall during the trouble. Harris was suspended temporarily and Daniel Green put to work in his place. The trouble will be investigated at once.

His Revenge.

From the Detreit Free Frees.

One of Detroit's business men, who has a delightful summer home on the top of a hill between Birmingham and Pontiac, tells of an experience he had last season:

"When out there I always take a nap after my noon meal. No tropical resident thinks more of his siesta. One afternoon I was awakened by a loud shouting at the front gate, which is at least 600 feet from the house. I went to the front door, rubbing my eyes and hadly out of temper.

"What do you want? I called sharply to the man, who sat coolly astride his horse, as though I had no rights that he was bound to respect.

"Have you seen a stray dog pass here in the last hour?"

"No! I snapped, and turned back into the hours. The e the thought and inspiration for revenge selzed me simultaneously. I hurried to the kitchen, grasped the big dinner horn, returned to the porch, waited till my tormentor was at the top of the opposite hill, half a mile away, and then blew a blast that seemed to echo from the horizon. He turned to see me waving a towel over my head and, recognizing the signal, dashed recklessly down the hill, spurred his horse to the top of the bluff on which like, and fairly threw him on his haunches at the gate. 'Did you recall seeing him, after all?" he hallooed.

"Oh, no,' I answered pleasantly, 'I just wanted to ask whose dog he was.'

"I don't think that I ever heard any other man swear so fluently."
